1.The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2.Claims 1-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wu (6,709,617) in view of Hellberg (6,440,345). Wu discloses or suggests the basic claimed method of providing a prosthetic socket (column 1, line 21) for a residual limb that extends distally from a joint including (1) positioning the residual limb, (2) applying moldable means over at least a portion of the residual limb and joint, (3) permitting the moldable means to set to form a negative mold of at least a portion of the residual limb and joint, and (4) removing the mold from the residual limb and joint. Wu appear to illustrate the positioning of the residual limb in a substantially positively flexed manner but appear also not to explicitly teach such positioning. But Hellberg, at column 4, lines 1-7, explicitly teach such flexed positioning of a stump when forming a sleeve or socket for the stump. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to incorporate the manner of positioning taught by Hellberg into the method of Wu in order to avoid unwanted folds, as taught by Hellberg at column 4, lines 1-7.

Wu suggests shaping the mold for a permitted range of motion, as in claim 2, and the formation of a positive model (column 7, line 65), as in claims 3 and 8, as well as constructing the socket over the positive mold, as in claims 4 and 9. Wu at least suggests the reducing a building up of claims 5 and 10, by alluding to modifications, at column 1, line 17. Wu teaches or suggests the use of a sock or liner, as in claims 11-

15, for example at column 6, line 48 and the adaptation of the mold, as in claims 16 and 17. Wu also teaches or suggests the repositioning of the mold and forming a cast, as in claims 6 and 7.
